■ Manager commentary

In June 2026, the Momentum GF Global Equity Fund gained 2.6% in GBP terms (total return), outperforming the MSCI World Index, which gained 0.8% over the month. This resulted in relative outperformance of approximately 1.8%.

Global equity markets weakened in June. Market returns were mixed as a pullback in mega-cap technology companies offset stronger performance from more cyclical and value-oriented areas. The AI theme also became more selective: semiconductor and AI infrastructure stocks remained volatile but continued to benefit from the scale of investment in data centres, while investors became more cautious on companies exposed to rising capital expenditure, component cost inflation and questions around the returns from AI spending. Oil prices also declined sharply as geopolitical concerns around Middle East energy supply eased.

The largest positive contributor was Information Technology, which added approximately +1.2% to relative performance. This reflected the Fund's exposure to areas benefiting from the continuing AI infrastructure build-out, including Lam Research, which contributed positively as semiconductor capital expenditure remained a key market theme. The Fund also benefited from underweight positions in Microsoft and Apple, both of which were weak benchmark constituents during the month. In Apple's case, this was consistent with broader market concerns that AI-related demand for memory and other components is increasing input costs for downstream hardware companies.

The main detractors were Financials and Industrials. In Financials, the Fund's positioning detracted as several holdings failed to keep pace with a stronger benchmark sector. Industrials also detracted, with Wolters Kluwer among the weaker contributors as the market continues to negatively re-rate the stock on AI competition concerns. Within technology, some of the positive effect from the broader sector was offset by underweights or absences from strong semiconductor-related benchmark names, including Micron, Applied Materials, Intel and Marvell Technology, which performed well as enthusiasm for chip manufacturing and AI infrastructure remained elevated.

Overall, June highlighted the benefit of the Fund's diversified multi-manager structure. The portfolio outperformed in a weaker market because active positioning within technology, supported by contributions from Health Care and Communication Services, more than offset weakness in Financials and Industrials. The result also showed the importance of selectivity within the AI theme, where the market increasingly rewarded companies linked to the infrastructure build-out while penalising some downstream beneficiaries exposed to rising costs and more demanding investor expectations.
